

CABINET MEMBER SHOWS
HIMSELF GOOD HUNTERSeveral Wild Boar, Number of Deer, and Numerous Duck Fall Before McAdoo's Gun.

Special to The Washington Herald.
Georgetown, S. C., Jan. 2.—South Carolina's game supply is minus several wild boar, a number of deer, and 100 duck and quail as a result of a four-day hunt on the big plantation and game reserve of Capt. Isaac T. Emerson, near here. The principal marksman was Secretary of the Treasury William G. McAdoo.

Greatly elated over his hunting trip, Secretary McAdoo leaves Georgetown tomorrow for Washington and expects to be at his desk on Monday. Capt. Emerson, who is the father-in-law of Secretary McAdoo's son, arranged a special expedition for the Cabinet member.

The count literally has been swarming with wild mallards, teal, black-tip ducks, while a few miles back from the coast in the swamps the wild boar offered exciting sport to the hunters. Small deer also are plentiful along the coast, while the fields, woods, and stubble are full of the famous Carolina partridge.

Secretary McAdoo is a good shot and managed to hold his own with other members of the hunting party. He will return to Washington with some of the game killed here.

CER, WARNS AGAINST DELAY

DR. ABRAHAM JACOBY.

New York, Jan. 2.—Dr. Abraham Jacoby, the noted authority of women's and children's diseases, who was himself cured by the application of radium of a cancer that appeared on the side of his own nose, has issued a warning to persons who are suffering from this dread affliction. "I am of the opinion," he said, "that internal cancer should be removed by the knife before it has reached its mature growth. Do not wait for what radium may do, when we know what can be done by surgery. I am afraid that, buoyed up by their faith in the wonderful magic of radium, many men and women will put off necessary operations until it is too late."
